

Communications with Remarkable Beings

Through David Furlong

31 December to 6 January

Background

Having had now had communication with Guerrion and further communication with Tengorn I thought to ask H-A for more insights into the evolution of consciousness through the nature kingdoms and how 'elemental' beings fitted into the picture.

H-A

We are pleased to have this opportunity of communicating with you again. As we have already conveyed the Universe is predicated on the evolution of consciousness in all its myriad forms of expression. Before considering your specific question, we would like first to share our perception of this evolutionary process by way of an analogy.

Imagine two deeply loving individuals in their early thirties coming together with the intent of creating a family. A seed of consciousness is fertilised within the mother's womb and from that moment the developing embryo begins its journey into becoming a human baby that is born nine months later. Throughout the early stages of the embryo's existence it continues to experience before eventually emerging into a warm caring environment. The infant slowly grows through babyhood and childhood sustained by deeply loving parents that care for its every move. As child develops it is introduced to other family members and going on to attend nursery and infant schooling it learns how to relate to other children before attending primary and secondary schools. The child is taken on frequent holidays and is introduced it to a range of experiences that furthers and deepens its education. Eventually the child passes through its adolescence and leaves home to attend university, where it further broadens its education and experience of life. Having gained a degree and graduated it embarks on a career of service to others where it learns the value of cooperation, companionship and love. On reaching full maturity in its early thirties it meets and falls in love with its soul mate and from their union new life is created and the cycle starts again. This journey, in linear time, is propelled through cell maturation. The child, adolescent or adult cannot stop this process. However, supposing we imagine a scenario that was depicted in one of your films called 'Ground Hog Day'. In this movie the hero of the film finds himself reliving each day yet with the awareness of what he had experienced the previous day. Through this means he gradually changes, amends and develops both himself and the day's events to achieving eventually a loving relationship that allows him to break out of this repetitive cycle.

We would like you to consider that all spiritual evolution conforms to these twin analogies that combine both a linear as well as a circular progression. There is a directional impulse that runs through your life that has taken you from an embryonic stage and will eventually lead to the unification with your Soulmate and the ability to create new spirit essences.

Every experience you undergo from embryo to Creator adds to the consciousness of the Universe. You might consider that the moment when you unite with your Soulmate is the point when you join the Godhead. This is a level of spiritual experience, which is in perfect balance and harmony within itself. It is a moment of Ultimate Consciousness that has no limitations or boundaries. On reaching this Creator level you are not alone, for there with you are all the other Spirits that also have reached this supreme level on Consciousness.

Whether you call this level God, Allah, Brahma, YHWH or just the Source or Creator is matters not for it represents a level of Perfection and the potential for new creation. Each of you who read this account have your own Spiritual or Divine Parents, which may or may not be the same as the parents of your friends or pet or the nature that surrounds you, such as the trees, flowers, insects and animals. And yet, as we have tried to indicate this Supreme level is also one within itself in ways that are far beyond what can be conveyed through words.

For this journey to be completed each spirit, each spark of creation, is imbued with free-will. Your Spiritual Parents are there to assist and guide you, but they cannot, and nor would they wish to, live your life for you. This is your journey your path of evolution and spiritual growth. You have the free-will to re-live each day for as many days as you need, require or wish in your path of growth and experience. All spirit expressions, whether linked to a physical form, such as yourself or your pets or exists independent a physical manifestation, conforms to these patterns. It is a journey of both individuation as well as harmonisation, bound together with supreme love.

We would therefore like you to see this journey from embryo to maturation in a flexible way, where each second, each minute, each hour, each day, each week, each month and each year represents a stage of spiritual awareness. These are rather like, portals, gateways or filters of spiritual maturation. In order, to progress to the next level certain principles need to be understood and woven into your spiritual essence. Without this understanding, as in the film, the day goes on being repeatedly offering the opportunity for further exploration and spiritual awareness. You might like to consider that human evolution, with its series of incarnations onto the physical plane, might represent at most a few ‘months’ of your metaphorical spiritual journey from seed embryo to Creator. The largest part of your spiritual evolution will occur when you no longer need to incarnate into the physical realm. Having made that statement we would not want you to then undervalue the incredible opportunity for understanding and growth that is available to you during your lifetimes. Physical incarnation offers an extraordinary opportunity to experience the diversity of life forms and spiritual expressions. Sadly, and too often, pain and suffering has become a dominant theme within human life, but this need not be the case if there was a greater level of awareness and understanding of human beings’ true spiritual nature. In past times, advanced souls, have incarnated onto your planet to correct some of the ‘negativity’ that has become woven into the human psyche. It is important to understand the ‘shadow’ but not be dominated by it, for you are essentially beings of ‘light’. During this period there is an enormous push by the ‘light’ to help bring your planet back into balance.

Having set this background, we will be happy to further expand on the spiritual role of the nature and elemental kingdoms when we next communicate.

I thanked H-A and his team for their insights and sharing. What was stated here made logical sense in suggesting that the Godhead, was a level of consciousness rather than a single being or entity.

Critique and Assessment

I started this communication in the afternoon of the 31st but a phone call interrupted the flow and it was difficult to get back to the writing. However, that night I reflected before I went to sleep on the broad theme of what HA and his team seemed to be conveying and awoke next morning with some clear images and impressions. When I sat down to write up the communication that morning it flowed very easily. Whenever I have had a problem in the past I have found that sleeping on the issue often produced a clear vision and insight on the steps need to be taken.
